Museology: A Curators Perspective;, by Dr. Shubha Banerji

Dr. Shubha Banerji explained how Museology is a science of museum management and the main aim of this seminar was to train students in such a way that they will be in a better position by being well qualified to develop and maintain museums. Museology by nature is both science and humanities' "Museology is a comprehensive term covering both the theoretical and practical aspects of museum management. Every subject leads towards specialization from generalization. Hence, museology must also lead for specialization. There must be some common elements in curriculum of all the university departments and institutes. Along with teaching various aspects of general curriculum (museology) every university department and institute may provide facilities for teaching and training in various specialized disciplines. For this purpose, they may cooperate with various departments of a university for inter-disciplinary study and may also with museums for practical training and internship.

'Gandhi for our Times' by Dr. Mridula Mukherjee

The Time Travellers organised its annual fest ;Karvan&amp; from 13-14. The theme for this year was ;Dastaan-e-Dilli, Delhi since 1947 which proved to be an exciting journey of exploring the various shades and charms of post-Independence Delhi through enlightening lectures and discussions along with scintillating cultural programmes. The speakers provided the students with vast facts and knowledge over Delhi through the crevices in the decade of the independence struggle with special references to the pioneer colleges of Delhi-St. Stephens, Hindu , IP 'Gandhi for our Times' was well explained by Dr. Mridula Mukherjee she mentioned how The moment the mighty figure of Gandhi rises before us, the question presents itself: What is his relevance today and for the future? What inspiration can we draw from his life? What light can his thought and wisdom shed on our problems? How does his way of life affect our course of action in private and public affairs? That Gandhi is relevant today and for centuries to come is not in doubt at all. The words which Jawaharlal Nehru uttered almost immediately after Gandhi's sudden exit from this world are found to prove prophetic. He said, The light is gone and yet it will shine for a thousand years. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., the Nobel Peace Prize winner of U.S.A., came to India as a pilgrim in 1959. After a month's sojourn in the land of Gandhi, on the eve of his departure, he was asked a cynical question at a press conference in Delhi. Where is Gandhi today? He was asked: we see him nowhere. Dr. King's reply was that Gandhi was inevitable. If humanity is to progress, Gandhi is inescapable. He lived, thought and acted, inspired by the vision of a humanity evolving towards a world of peace and harmony. We may ignore him only at our own risk.

'Invoking Delhi through Education since 1947' By Dr. Amrit Kaur Basra

An amazing seminar conducted by Dr. Amrit Kaur Basra where she stressed on education in Delhi since 1947. She explained how India has seen a rapid expansion in secondary education, there has been a drift of demand towards private schooling with a large number of parents choosing this in preference to government schools. The present study made an attempt to analyze the pattern of growth of secondary education in Delhi, using data from SEMIS and Directorate of Education. For in depth study primary data was also collected from senior secondary schools of Delhi. The analysis emphasizes the pattern of growth in number of schools and participation in secondary and senior secondary level under different management and the factors affecting the shift in demand towards private schools in Delhi. The overarching findings suggest that in Delhi the government schools have basic resources but, private unaided schools have more advanced resources that are academically important, such as better classroom availability, internet connection, science laboratory and variety of books in the library, which are causing the shift in choice of schools. We also see that, within the sample, children in private schools seem to perform better academically, despite better-qualified and more experienced teachers working in government schools.
