Dr Harsha Vardhana Singh was the deputy director general at WTO. He has spent time with spiritual masters since an early age, while acquiring a modern education and working in expert national and international institutions. With a DPhil in Economics from Oxford, where he went as a Rhodes scholar, he worked with the UN system and GATT/WTO in Geneva, was Economic Advisor and then Secretary of Telecom Regulatory Authority of India and has been a member of high-level policy committees and expert committees. He has also been Executive Director at Brookings India.

On February 15, 2022, at 12 p.m., ECONOX conducted a webinar with Dr. Harsha Vardhana Singh on the subject of "Covid and International Trade: Indian Response in a Global Context." More than 100 participants from the University of Delhi and other universities around the country attended the webinar. The audience received a detailed overview of India from the former executive director of Brookings (India), who also discussed the international strategies and economic policies that were put in place during the last stages of the pandemic with a focus on the post-pandemic era.

The students were delighted to get such valuable insights on International Trade of India in the pandemic era that had been put into perspective from a veteran. Team ECONOX was deeply honoured to have been able to conduct a webinar with Dr. Harsha Vardhana Singh.

Poster for the social media handles

- India's exports relatively stagnant
- India's imports relatively high
 - India's exports compared to other economies
 - (a) Exports deficit with China
- FDI had played a major part in raising exports of competing economies
- India's relatively higher tariffs and tariffs deficits created difficulties in negotiating Free Trade Agreements (FTAs)
- India opted out of RCEP in November 2019
- Concern that other competing economies:
 - (a) Negotiating deep FTAs
 - (b) These FTAs created regional GVC markets

The presentation is being shared by Harsha Singh. The meeting interface shows several participants: Vibha Himthani, Aastha Gupta, Harsh Narain, Ritu Khanna, Mamta lamba, Kashish Bidhuri, Harsha Singh, 102 others, and You. The Windows taskbar at the bottom shows the time as 12:11 on 15-02-2022.

Social Norms and Women's Economic Achievements: A Speaker Session by Ms. Nisha Agrawal

Teacher Coordinator	Pradip Kumar Biswas	Student Coordinator	Umang Agrawal
No. of Participants	35	Speaker	Nisha Agrawal
No. of teachers	3

On November 18, 2021, Ms. Nisha Agarwal conducted a webinar on the topic "Social Norms and Women's Economic Achievements." Her openness and contemporary viewpoints on societal conventions and the position of women in the prevailing social structure created a deep impact on the minds of the students. The webinar received an overwhelming response with 35 participants.

She interacted with the attendees on various topics for example, she discussed how people have misinterpreted or glorified the ancient practices that has led to the increased discrimination based on gender. she also talked about how the social biasness Still exists in the twenty first century by giving the example of 'glass ceiling' in corporate America.

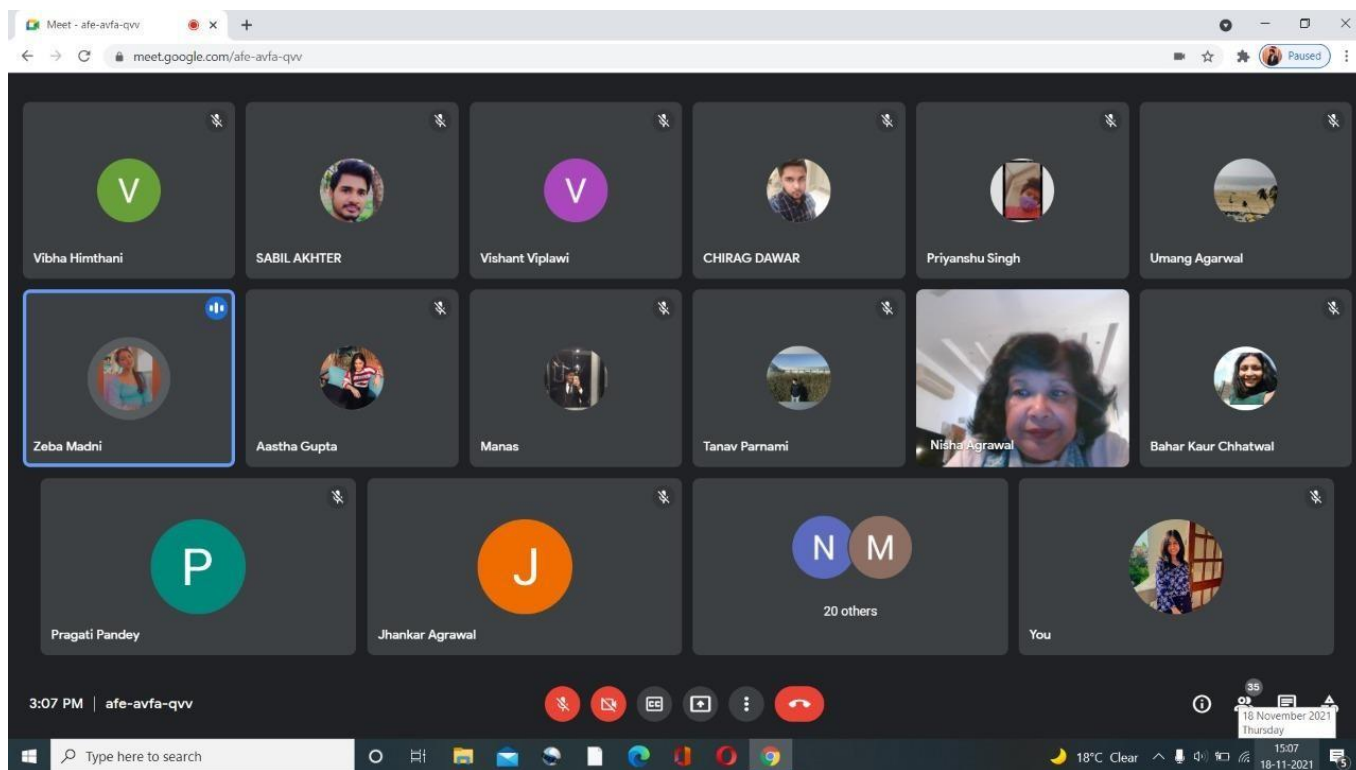

Moreover, she shared about the advantages of increased women's participation ratio under the workers population. she talked about various women economists and their achievements. The students were actively participating by putting up their queries and point of view. At the same time Ms. Nisha was calm enough to take up every doubt with a smile on her face.

To sum up, the webinar was a huge success. It proved to be extremely knowledgeable for the students since social and economic development go hand in hand.

Mental Health and Emotional Intelligence: A Speaker Session by Dr. Nisha Khanna

Teacher Coordinator	Pradip Kumar Biswas	Student Coordinator	Ujjawal Biraji
No. of Participants	35	Speaker	Nisha Khanna
No. of teachers	2

ECONOX, The Economics Society, College of Vocational Studies conducted a webinar on "Mental health and emotional intelligence" on 18 November'22. Around 35 students from various colleges across the nation attended the program.

The webinar started off with Dr. Nisha Khanna going into great length about the value of emotional intelligence and mental health, starting with how to recognize the state of mental health. A person might have poor mental health and be unaware of it; people frequently become upset by regrets, failures, strained relationships, and other factors that have a negative impact on their mental health. She gave a quick explanation of how our mental and physical health differ, and how while physical illness is simple to recognize, mental disruption is equally challenging.

In her discussion on emotional intelligence, she stated that basic behavioral skills like respecting children's privacy, appreciating the time of others, and deferring to their decisions are examples of mental intelligence. Dr. Nisha's case studies and examples, which were extensively used throughout the webinar, provided the viewers with insightful information. Different techniques for concentration, focus, stress alleviation, anti-addiction, self-improvement, and exciting reactions were introduced to the audiences.

Dr. Nisha Khanna answered audience questions near the session's conclusion. She also provided insights with experience, expertise, discussion of the issue, and treatment exercises for each question in her response.

Good evening ma'am. I just want to ask is how to move beyond the inner critic of the mind.

Aastha Gupta 5:38 PM
Pandemic has affected each one of us mentally and honestly it sometimes becomes difficult to focus on work even now. What do you suggest us to do to overcome this time period?

sahil 5:40 PM
Hello mam, when saying NO is good and when saying NO is bad.

Deepali Sehrawat 5:43 PM
After the pandemic, it has become difficult to study. Can you tell some ways to avoid distractions?

Chehak Sharma 5:44 PM
During the pandemic alot of family members were health anxious and were constantly googling out even the minor symptoms. How to avoid that?

WORKSHOP ON EXPERIMENTAL ECONOMICS BY MRS. DEEPTI BHATIA

Teacher Coordinator	Pradip Kumar Biswas	Student Coordinator	Harsh Narain
No. of Participants	40	Speaker	Mrs. Deepti Bhatia

ECONOX hosted a session on experimental economics with Mrs. Deepti Bhatia on June 30, 2022, Mrs. Deepti Bhatia is currently pursuing her PhD in Experimental Economics at the Graduate School of Decision Sciences, University of Konstanz. She is also affiliated with Thurgau Institute of Economics, Switzerland. Her research interests include studying human behavior through lab and field experiments. During her doctoral studies, she has worked on how responsibility is attributed in group decisions and on caste-based discrimination in the labor market. Previously, she worked as a researcher at Research and Information System for Developing Countries (RIS) and as a Project Mentor at Ashoka University, Sonapat.

The workshop started with an introduction to experimental economics and why it is needed as a separate branch of economics. The speaker further interacted with the students by playing “Dictator Game” and “Gym Attendance” to show them an example of what kinds of experiments are conducted. Further, the speaker threw light on the importance of conducting experiments in a controlled environment in order to get as accurate results as possible. The topic "Economic Cons" is then brought up to close the discussion.

At the end, the attendees asked some very interesting questions which were answered by the speakers. The session ended with a note of gratitude to the speaker and the attendees. Overall, the workshop was success with over 50 students attending it from all over University of Delhi.

Experimental Control

Control often allows for point predictions
Equilibrium or disequilibrium actions
Quick or sticky adjustment

- Examples: how do supply and demand schedules determine observable price & quantity data?
- Is the observed price-quantity combination a competitive equilibrium?

Better direct controls often substitute complicated econometrics

Replicability
Multiple observations more reliable than casual observation
Critics can run their own experiments
